Gorillas are large mammals. Many gorillas live in the mountains of Africa. They are mainly herbivores. They eat bamboo, leafy plants, and sometimes small insects. They are known for their use of tools and different ways of communicating. They are considered to be very intelligent or smart animals. Gorillas are endangered. They can live 40-50 years.

Gorillas are considered to be very intelligent or smart animals. They are known for their use of tools and different ways of communicating. They eat bamboo, leafy plants, and sometimes small insects.