Put these “Reindeer” words in ABC Order.

1. ____________________
2. ____________________
3. ____________________
4. ____________________
5. ____________________
6. ____________________
7. ____________________
8. ____________________

This is my picture!

Fun Fact

DID YOU KNOW?

____________________
____________________
____________________
____________________

All About Reindeer

____________________
____________________
Reindeer are found in the very coldest parts of North America, Asia, and Europe. They are called reindeer everywhere but in North America where they are called caribou.

They are mammals with thick wooly fur. Their hair is hollow inside which provides them a form of insulation. Reindeer have large circular hooves that spread apart as they walk on the snow. They act like snowshoes and prevent the reindeer from sinking into the snow. They use their hooves to dig for food beneath the snow.

Wild reindeer are herbivores. That means they eat plants, leaves, stems and buds. They really like edible mushrooms. They also eat lichen which is a moss that grows on the ground.

Reindeer travel together in herds to look for food. These herds can range from 1,000-10,000 reindeer! They are fast runners and can run up to 50 miles per hour!

1. Reindeer have circular ___________________ that help them ___________________.
2. Another name for reindeer is ___________________.
3. Reindeer travel together in __________ to look for ___________.
4. They are fast runners and can run ___________________!
5. What do reindeer eat? ___________________  ___________________
Reindeer are found in the very coldest parts of North America, Asia, and Europe. They are called reindeer everywhere but in North America where they are called caribou.

They are mammals with thick wooly fur. Their hair is hollow inside which provides them a form of insulation. Reindeer have large circular hooves that spread apart as they walk on the snow. They act like snowshoes and prevent the reindeer from sinking into the snow. They use their hooves to dig for food beneath the snow.

Wild reindeer are herbivores. That means they eat plants, leaves, stems and buds. They really like edible mushrooms. They also eat lichen which is a moss that grows on the ground.

Reindeer travel together in herds to look for food. These herds can range from 1,000-10,000 reindeer! They are fast runners and can run up to 50 miles per hour!

1. Reindeer have circular _______________ that help them ____________________.

2. Another name for reindeer is ____________________

3. Reindeer travel together in __________ to look for__________.

4. They are fast runners and can run ________________!

5. What do reindeer eat? __________________________
                        __________________________